2025 Edition of the CSX Santa Train

The annual CSX Santa Train trip is set for Saturday, Nov. 22nd, 2025, the railroad has announced. The 83rd running of the train, a tradition dating to 1943, will again feature a 110-mile trip from Shelbiana, KY to Kingsport, TN, distributing more than 15 tons of toys, gifts, and winter apparel to thousands of families.

“What makes the CSX Santa Train special isn’t the miles it covers, but the moments and memories it creates for families,” Bryan Tucker, CSX vice president of stakeholder engagement and sustainability, said in a press release. “We’re touched by the generations of families who gather to welcome the CSX Santa Train year after year and by the overwhelming support it receives across the country.” Supporting the communities where we live and work is at the heart of our ONE CSX culture. It’s about bringing people together, sharing joy, and honoring a tradition that helps connect families across the region. It’s a privilege to help carry this legacy forward and share in the joy it brings.” A video announcing this year’s train can be found at

Helene Disaster Recovery

BLUE RIDGE SUBDIVISION IS BACK UP AND OPERATING

If you have not heard or read the news, the old Clinchfield is back up and operating. Freight and coal trains are operating again with a big change as crews are now called out of Erwin instead of Kingsport.

[From Google AI] About the Poplar Bridge and Hurricane Helene:

- The bridge spans the Nolichucky River, also known as the North Toe River, near the community of Poplar in western North Carolina.
- Hurricane Helene, which struck on September 27, 2024, caused catastrophic flooding in the area that completely washed out miles of track and destroyed the original Poplar Bridge.
- CSX completed the rebuilt bridge in June 2025, a critical step towards reopening the line. The new structure was designed to be stronger and more resilient to future severe weather.
- The overall project involved rebuilding nearly 60 miles of the Blue Ridge Subdivision that had been severely damaged.
- The first CSX freight train to pass over the rebuilt Poplar Bridge since Hurricane Helene was a coal train that traversed the Blue Ridge Subdivision on Thursday, September 25, 2025. This marked the restoration of a vital rail corridor after a year of extensive repairs.

The photo below was taken from a special train for local officials of Mitchell County and Spruce Pine, NC who joined Tennessee dignitaries and railroad workers who rebuilt track from Erwin, TN to Poplar, NC. [From the Mitchell News-Journal, October 21, 2025]

by Les Billings

Happy Fall Y'all. I am very thrilled to be presenting in this month's Display in the Block, photos of CSX trains running down the tracks. After a long year of reconstruction in the Gorge, trains are once again rolling through to the south. Coal and Ethanol trains at first and then Freight. I have made it a point to concentrate on CSX.

We also want to encourage others to submit their photos to the Whistle Stop. Please email them to: whistlestop.editor@gmail.com or railfan0404191@gmail.com. Would love to publish.

[Above] A trip to North Carolina a few weeks ago, I was lucky and caught CSX C406, Coal Drag, with #851 leading just south of Relief, NC heading up toward the first tunnel south on Erwin. It was a great sight because I had not seen any all day.

After a trip over in the Gorge, I stopped in Erwin to see if there were any activity, I found that they were switching & repositioning some locomotives to build a empty scrubber train to head north.

Once all the locomotives were placed in Erwin, the Scrubber train moved north through J.C. with 6 lead units.

Empty Coal train heading north as it will be exiting the “High Line” in Johnson City and heading north towards Kingsport and then on to be refilled and heading back south once again.

[Left] I was unable to catch the first Coal train coming down the line, but this was the second. It is rolling through Johnson City near my house at MP 118.3.

[Left] Also while in Erwin, I saw this poor CSX Caboose setting rusting away on a siding. It look as if was begging to be restored. Maybe, someone will some day.
